The infographic 'Drug Dependence' provides a comprehensive overview of addiction. It features several key sections:

- What are drugs? / Dependence: Explains that dependence is a state where the body adapts to the presence of a drug, leading to withdrawal symptoms upon cessation.
- Signs of drug consumption: Lists symptoms such as changes in mood, appetite, and physical appearance.
- Behavioral changes: Discusses how chronic drug use can lead to personality changes, including isolation and loss of interest in previously enjoyed activities.
- Withdrawal symptoms: Describes the physical and psychological effects experienced when drug use is stopped, such as sweating, tremors, and intense cravings.
- Factors in drug dependence: Identifies biological, psychological, and social factors that contribute to the development of addiction.
- Rehabilitation: Outlines the stages of treatment, from detoxification to long-term support.

The infographic uses a central circular diagram to illustrate the relationship between drug consumption, dependence, and withdrawal. It also includes several photographs of individuals affected by substance abuse and a diagram showing the progression of drug therapy.
